Compute is
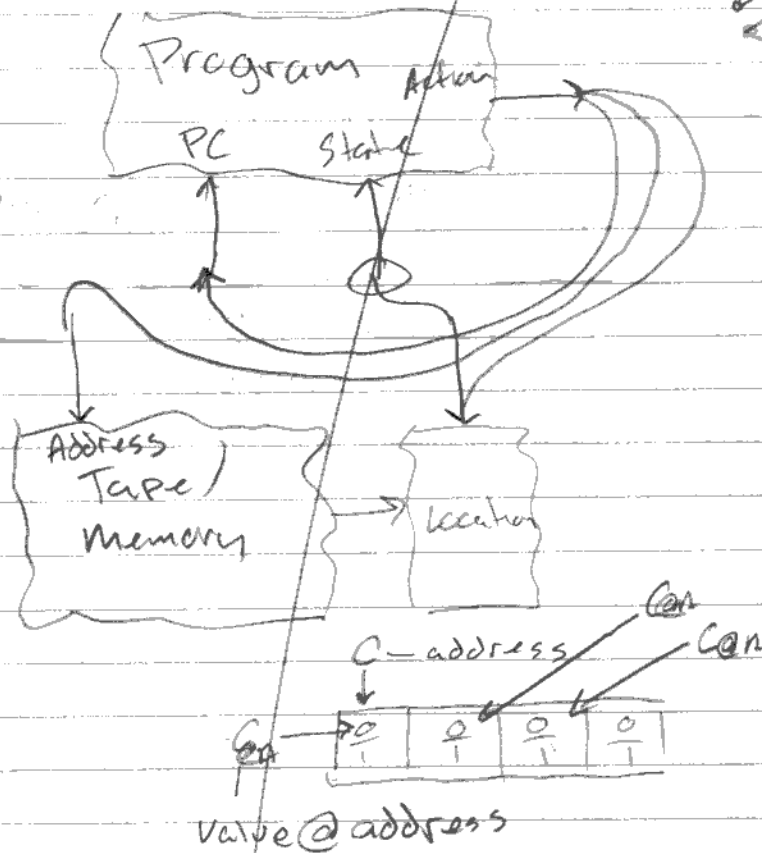

- Different data structures projected against each other

This is a turing machine made from controlled unlocking of sub state in a set of data structures projected against each other in terms of unlocking dependencies

Unlocking allows a data structure to be accessed and or modified.

Unlocking can be thought of as enabled by a key. The key can be thought of